Life After High School

You just graduated from high school and your family gave you $5000 to start your new journey. What are you going to do with the money? Are you going to open bank accounts? Which accounts will you open? How much are you going to put into each account?

Using the $5000 from my family I will put a total of $1,000 into a savings account. Another $500 into a secured credit card and the other $3,500 into my bank account for college tuition or future expenses.

Transportation

I decide to go to university and due to the non parking policy I will be getting a bike to get from class to class. The bike will cost $265 (including safety gear). I will use the money from my savings account to purchase the bike.

Short Term Goals

My short term goal is to gain work experience for future jobs and to get a degree from the university that i'll be attending.

I will be able to achieve this goal by keeping a healthy work/study/life balance and focusing on whats important.

Long Term Goals

My long term goal is to graduate from university and to get a job in the field that i studied in. I will achieve this by completing my short term goals which are getting work experience for future jobs and to focus on school.
